One Man Killed; Fire Fighters Injured, Homes Wrecked By Great Flame

WEST GREENWICH, R. I., May 1—Gov. J. Howard McGrath today declared martial law in the towns of Coventry, West Greenwich and Scituate, as fire, thought by authorities to be the work of saboteurs, raged uncontrolled over 40 square miles of woodlands along the Rhode Island-Connecticut border.

The chief executive took the step after Adjutant General Peter Leo Cannon, of the state guard, reported the fire out of control and urged that "drastic" military action be taken.

The governor left the state house at Providence by automobile for the scene where thousands of fire-fighters were striving to check the roaring flames.

Meanwhile, a new fire north of the north edge of the original fire in Coventry was reported in the Bowen Hill section.

Loss $2,000,000

Damage already runs in excess of $2,000,000.

The large blaze was one of several in New England which brought death to one man, injury to some firemen, and destruction of many houses and valuable acres of timberland.

It broke out between Sterling and Killingly, Conn., and swept into the towns of Green, Coventry and Hopkins. R. I. Women and children were evacuated from the area as Governor McGrath ordered the woods closed.

Fighting the flames, which also destroyed 2,000,000 feet of hurricane timber salvaged by the government, were 200 Fort Devens soldiers, 150 Quonset Point sailors, 350 WPA workers and 500 volunteers.

Red Cross units from both states were at the scene treating the injured and serving food to fire fighters.

A new fire broke out this morning at Escoheag and swept toward the Rhode Island-Connecticut border.

SHE LEARNED FIRST AID SO WELL DIGGER LIVES

COLUMBUS, May 1—A. W. Laubenshimer, 42, of nearby Grove City was in fair condition today because a farmer's daughter, who learned first aid at Ohio State university, revived him when he was overcome by gas in cleaning a well.

Miss Jean Dixon, 22, applied artificial respiration to the victim after a fellow workman brought him up from the bottom of the well which had been pumped dry. Laubenshimer fell back overcome with gas as he tried to ascend a ladder.

LaGuardia Hopping Mad Over Holiday Spirit Shown In Downtown New York

NEW YORK, May 1 — Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia was hopping "mad" today over the way 1,000,000 New Yorkers in carnival mood poured into Times Square and the theatrical district to watch mid-Manhattan stage its initial blackout test.

"They must not do it," the mayor exclaimed angrily, "the people must get off the streets. We're not going to have a wholesale slaughter."

Like the gay and happy-go-lucky crowds which throng the great white way on New Year's eve and election night, the Times Square district was jammed with humanity to watch the 20-minute production of "Blackout over Broadway."

ICELANDIC GIRLS NOW BARRED AS SOLDIER BRIDES

REYKJAVIK, May 1—American doughboys bent on picking up a bride while helping the United Nations win the war seem to be running into difficulties on other fronts than Australia.

The government of Iceland today announced that a joint policy with American army officials had been effected to discourage soldiers from marrying Icelandic girls. Three reasons for the "discouragement" policy were cited:

1. A soldier supporting a new home is not apt to carry out his military duties with the required efficiency.
  2. A soldier's future in wartime is uncertain.
  3. The army lacks power to make a soldier provide for his family.
- Those dashing United States marines were reported to have made such an impression in Iceland that native girls are seeking passage to the United States—with intentions matrimonial.

NERVOUS BANDIT HAD NOTHING ON HOLDUP VICTIM

CHICAGO, May 1—"I am a very nervous robber. Don't make me have a nervous breakdown, because when I do, I generally start shooting."

With this preamble, a young bandit took $55 from Guy Rabito, a salesman, and then forced him to drive several blocks before ejecting him from Rabito's car.

In reporting the robbery to police today, Rabito said:

"That guy doesn't know what it is to be nervous. He should have seen me shake."

SOLDIER FOUND NOT GUILTY IN IRISH KILLING

WITH THE A. E. F. SOMEWHERE IN NORTHERN IRELAND, May 1 — Sgt. William V. Cliphsham, tried in connection with the death of an Irish bus driver, was found not guilty on the first vote today at the first general military court martial to be held at an A. E. F. base in northern Ireland.

Six high ranking officers of the American forces, who comprised the court martial, voted an honorable acquittal for Cliphsham without dissent.

The Narveth, Pa., sergeant was protecting a military convoy when the bus driver, Albert Rodden, was killed on April 17, when a scout car attempted to pass the bus. Rodden was thrown against a machine gun which discharged accidentally and killed him.

Captains Fred Kraschel of Harlan, Ia., and Floyd Warren of Minneapolis, serving as defense attorneys, contended that Rodden failed repeatedly to heed demands to keep his bus clear of the path of the scout car, which was proceeding the convoy. Capt. Alois Wartner of Harvey, N. D., was prosecutor.

Military And Naval Chiefs Praise Bill To Increase Number Of Airships

WASHINGTON, May 1—Military and naval leaders of the Senate today hailed the blimp as the weapon with which America can end the losses of oil tankers as a result of enemy submarine action.

Sen. David I. Walsh (D) Mass., chairman of the naval affairs committee and the sponsor of a bill to increase the authorized number of blimps to 72, said the non-rigid, lighter-than-air craft will "stifle the preying raids of axis under water craft."

"The loss of one ship after another has been a tremendous handicap when every gallon of oil is essential," said Walsh.

"If we can establish a watchful patrol from the air, and the blimps are admirably equipped to do it, our ocean lanes will again be opened to tankers bringing the critically-needed oil to eastern factories and shipyards."

Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D) Colo., second ranking member of the military affairs committee also praised the move to guard the coastlines with blimps.

"They will take no real combat part in the fight against submarines," said Johnson, "but they are better equipped than any other aircraft to spot the enemies ships, and send swifter aircraft into action."

Berlin Reports Full Accord Of Views Created By "Overwhelming Victory"

BERLIN, May 1—(By Official German Wireless) — Adolf Hitler and Premier Benito Mussolini conferred at Salzburg Wednesday and Thursday, a German communique announced today.

The communique said the talks resulted in a complete accord of views of the situation created by the "overwhelming victory" of the tri-partite pact powers and on further conduct of the war by the two nations in both political and military spheres.

"Renewed expression was given of the stern determination of Italy and Germany and their allies to ensure final victory by all means within their power," the communique said.

Underlings Present

German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop and Italian Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano participated in the talks at Salzburg in former Austria.

The meetings took place at the government guest house on the outskirts of the city.

General Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German army high command, sat in on the conversations. Italian General Ugo Cavallero, German Field Marshal August Mackensen and Dino Alfieri, member of the Fascist grand council, also were present.

LONDON, May 1—A meeting between Adolf Hitler and Premier Mussolini today undoubtedly means that "the lid will blow off somewhere soon," British officials said today.

The conference itself, they said, was probably a cut and dried affair with no immediate major decision.

YOUTHS RULING CITY FOR DAY; HOLD BIG JOBS

Youth of the Circleville community took over Friday afternoon as Boys' and Girls' week neared a climax in the city. A parade was scheduled at 3 p. m. for all school children, with high school band and city officials to join in the procession.

The parade was to move to Ted Lewis recreation center where a complete program of games was being planned under direction of High School Coach Roy M. Black.

Thursday's highlight of the week was an Afro-American dance in Memorial hall during the evening, more than 100 persons attending.

A concert to start at 7:30 Friday evening and last for an hour is being planned, with dancing to start at 9 and continue until 12 o'clock.

Saturday, youths chosen by their classmates as mayor, chief of police and fire chief will take over city jobs to understand the regular officials. Mayor Ben H. Gordon said that he and his assistants will "show the ropes" to Junior Mayor Tom Shea, Junior Police Chief Dick Shaw and Junior Fire Chief Jack Wise.

Sheriff Horace M. Alexander said the boys were killed when a load of cast iron pipe in a railroad car they were riding toppled on them.

Immortal Tigers Of Air Soon to Disband And Add Skill To U.S. Air Forces

Men Who Shot Down 400 Jap Planes May Be Scattered — Would Rather Continue In Service As Unit

NEW DELHI, May 1—America's immortal "Flying Tigers," who shot down more than 400 Japanese planes in less than a year while losing only six of their number in actual combat, probably will disband this month and join in the regular U. S. Army air force.

Possible Chinese loss of bases along the Burma frontier, which would prevent a continuation of successful aerial operations in that sector, was listed as the cause for disbanding of the fliers, known officially as the American Volunteer group.

The fliers, now in New Delhi on a mission which cannot be disclosed, said they probably would be scattered throughout various units of the Army air corps following their induction, but indicated they would much prefer to be inducted as a unit.

In the latter event, they said, they would like to remain as a kind of aerial "Commando" unit to be used in daredevil tactics, and based at some critical base such as Calcutta, Colombo or Karachi.

Superior tactics devised by their commander, Col. Claire Chennault, were credited by the "Tigers" as a major factor in their amazing success, but observers have stated that the young Americans possessed flying ability far superior to that of the Japanese.

In addition to the six killed in combat, a dozen other members of the group lost their lives in accidents and still others resigned to go back to the United States and enlist following America's entry into the war.

HITLER MAKES NO FRIEND OF THIS QUISLING

CAMP STEWART, Ga., May 1 —Blood may be thicker than water but the Quisling in this United States army camp—a first cousin to Hitler's puppet premier of Norway—isn't exactly proud of the gent whose name has become synonymous with fifth column treachery.

Unlike the infamous Major Vidkun Quisling, Lieutenant Gunnar Quisling, of Madison, Wis., is fighting for democracy and it doesn't take long to find out what this medical officer thinks of cousin Vidkun and the Nazis.

Lieutenant Quisling, who was educated at the state universities of Wisconsin and Illinois, practiced medicine in Madison before joining Uncle Sam's forces. He said he applied for his commission in March, 1941 — seven months before America's entry into the war. He added:

"I applied for a commission in the Army before war was declared because I felt that axis aggression and its threat to world democracy would ultimately draw us into the war."

"I consider it a privilege as well as a duty to play my part in the American Army."

300 TOUGHEST ARE REMOVED FROM THE "ROCK"

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1—A "secret evacuation" of 300 of the nation's toughest criminals was reported under way today from Alcatraz federal prison, the "rock" in San Francisco bay from which no prisoner ever successfully escaped, to inland penitentiaries.

Evacuation of Alcatraz was urged last February in Washington by Congressman Richard E. Welch of San Francisco, who told Attorney General Francis Biddle:

"If Alcatraz were bombed and 300 of the most hardened criminals in the world were turned loose, words wouldn't describe what would happen. There would be a reign of terror in surrounding cities."

Hangars, Ammunition Dumps Are Turned Into Infernos By U. S. Bombs

CORREGIDOR DOWNS NIPS

British Blast At Occupied Europe For Ninth Day—Russ Report Gains

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, May 1—Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today that direct hits had been scored on a line of 30 grounded planes at the Japanese base of Lae, New Guinea, bringing the two-day total of enemy craft destroyed or damaged by United Nations fliers to 53.

The 30 grounded planes were attacked yesterday when Australian and American aces peppered the Lae airfield with bombs and machine-gun fire. Well aimed bombs turned what once were hangars and ammunition dumps into blazing infernos.

Twenty Japanese bombers and fighters were reported smashed Wednesday in an attack on Lae.

A Thursday attack on the nearby enemy base at Salamaua, during which ground installations were blasted, resulted in the loss of at least three more planes to the Japs. They were fighters shot out of the air when they attempted to intercept the United Nations craft.

Medicine Returned

Employing strafing tactics which previously had been used to great advantage by the Japs but since have been utilized more successfully by the United Nations, the American and Australian pilots combed the Jap airfields and installations with bombs and withering machine-gun fire.

The United Nations pilots emerged from the bitter attacks with only slight losses.

Even the beleaguered American fortress of Corregidor contributed in the last two days to the bag of enemy planes. Guns at that Manila bay bastion accounted for some three Jap bombers out of 12 which attacked the rocky fortress.

Jap Raid Fails

Significantly, for the first time in a number of weeks the Japs failed to attempt a raid against Port Moresby or send reconnaissance ships over that New Guinea United Nations base. It was believed that the force of American attacks against Lae and Salamaua may have neutralized the Jap aerial attacks for a day or else they by-passed Port Moresby to attack Horn Island, another United Nations base of the northern-most tip of Queensland. An initial attack there by eight Jap bombers, escorted by fighters, was disclosed by Gen. MacArthur. He said the damage was negligible.

The current actions by the United Nations squadrons are believed to have been successful.

AIR FORTRESSES START SMASHING RANGOON BASE

NEW DELHI, May 1 — American flying fortresses under command of Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton have launched a smashing new assault on the vital Japanese supply base of Rangoon, in Burma, it was announced today.

STOCKS ADVANCE AGAIN

NEW YORK, May 1—The stock market today chalked up its third straight rise after some hesitancy at the opening. Gains ran to as much as 3 points in special issues, although general improvement was modest.

Featuring was the unusual activity and strength in the long-dormant utility section. Some low-priced shares were up almost a point, while preferred power issues ran up 1 to almost 3.

The maintenance men have been seeking pay hikes for several months.

REGISTERING OF WOMEN WORKERS TO BE DELAYED

WASHINGTON, May 1—President Roosevelt today announced that plans for the registration of women for war work have been abandoned for the time being.

The President said he has accepted a recommendation to this effect made by Paul C. McNutt, war manpower administrator.

McNutt submitted to the President a report based on discussions with the women's division of the social security board.

This report, the President said, showed that there are now more women workers looking for jobs than there are jobs available. Approximately one and a half million women, the President added, are registered with local employment services. In view of this situation, the President said it had been decided that there was no need for registration of American womanhood at this time.

HOMER AND BELLE FEEL NO NEED FOR PEACE DOVE

NEW YORK, May 1 — Homer and Belle must feel there is no place today for a dove of peace in these troubled times.

These pigeons, which attracted nation-wide attention two years ago by committing "infanticide" after depositing an egg outside the maternity ward of Bellevue hospital, have repeated the tragedy by again by pushing an egg from the same ledge of the same ward.

AIR FORTRESSES START SMASHING RANGOON BASE

NEW DELHI, May 1 — American flying fortresses under command of Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton have launched a smashing new assault on the vital Japanese supply base of Rangoon, in Burma, it was announced today.

STOCKS ADVANCE AGAIN

NEW YORK, May 1—The stock market today chalked up its third straight rise after some hesitancy at the opening. Gains ran to as much as 3 points in special issues, although general improvement was modest.

Featuring was the unusual activity and strength in the long-dormant utility section. Some low-priced shares were up almost a point, while preferred power issues ran up 1 to almost 3.

lieved to have been devised by the late Gen. Harold H. George who was leaving to go north to take direct command of operations when he was killed in an accident at an airfield.

The two-day score piled up by the United Nations fliers enables them to make easy claim, for at least another day, to air superiority over the vital regions holding the fate of Australia.

British At Work

United Nations fliers continued to carry the air war to the axis today as Britain's Royal Air Force blasted objectives in German-occupied Europe for the ninth consecutive day.

Revelation that the Japanese may soon be plagued by lightning-like thrusts of United Nations Commando units, patterned after the hard-hitting British forces, was made in Australia by Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, commander-in-chief of all southwest Pacific land forces under Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

And on Europe's all-important eastern front, Russian armies scored new spectacular successes at several points in answer to Premier Josef Stalin's May Day exhortation to greater efforts with the objective of bringing about Germany's final defeat this year.

Axis Chiefs Meet

Meanwhile, Hitler officially reported a meeting between Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini, Wednesday and Thursday at Salzburg. A dispatch from Berlin, by way of Madrid, said only that "sensational developments" could be expected over the week end, but Virginia Gayda, Italian editor and frequently the mouthpiece for Premier Mussolini, was more specific.

While not revealing the exact time or place of the Hitler-Mussolini meeting, Gayda confirmed reports that it was "about to occur," and added: "We are on the eve of great events." A British government spokesman asserted that London would pay no attention to German attempts to effect an agreement calling for a cessation of the bombing of cities and even as he spoke, Royal Air Force planes were roaring across the English channel to deliver that rebuff in a convincing manner.

No such agreement would be plausible because of Adolf Hitler's past record for failure to live up to any agreement, the spokesman indicated. He declared that Britain would continue to bomb wherever the R. A. F. could destroy Germany's ability to make war, and hinted that some of those bombs shortly may be directed at Berlin itself.

POLICE ESCORT CONVICTS, BUT CASH IS STOLEN

Convicted of crime and in custody of authorities failed to prevent a Chillicothe prisoner from adding another law violation to his record when he was in Circleville long enough to eat lunch Thursday. The prisoner, in custody of two special officers, and a member of a party of four convicted men, was in the Betz restaurant when he stole a dollar bill from the glass case of Ruth Troutman, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. G. L. Troutman.

The little girl had left the case in the washroom, and the convict, permitted to use the men's restroom, had sneaked into the women's room and taken the money. The watch case was found empty. The convict was seen leaving the washroom, and one of the officers repaid the little girl her dollar, which was to be used for a music lesson. The guard said he would find the dollar when the four prisoners were returned to jail.

The group was returning to Chillicothe after efforts to enroll the prisoners in the Army in Columbus had failed because of their court records.

The last time the dictators met, it was emphasized, was just before Hitler's attack on Soviet Russia.

British circles were somewhat intrigued over the fact that Lt. Gen. Hiroshi Oshima, Japanese ambassador to Berlin, was not present at the conference, or at least was not mentioned in the communiqué.

Tokyo dispatches had given the first hint that a meeting of the dictators was imminent and all took it for granted that Oshima would be present.

No British observer would go so far even as to hint at a possible falling-out between Japan and Germany, taking the attitude instead that the official Japanese news agency was mixed up in its facts as it has been on numerous occasions in the past.

With a yellow (bomber's) moon as the only source of light, the city of a million lights was turned into total darkness at the stroke of 9:30 p. m. last night.

Traffic came to a halt and the New York which is the symbol of "life" to millions of moviegoers went into pitch darkness from the Hudson to the East river and from Greenwich Village to 124th street.

When the blackout ended, great portions of the crowd broke into applause and cheering, but Times Square still was comparatively dark. ## ANOTHER SUIT THROWN INTO DIVORCE MILL

With the divorce mill of common pleas court busy grinding out decrees, another petition was filed by a Circleville wife Friday, Mrs. Virginia Crosby charging Albert L. Crosby with failing to provide for herself and her three children. Mrs. Crosby herself is a minor, the petition being brought by her mother and next of kin, Mrs. Ethel Tigner.

The Crosbys were married in Greenup, Ky., August 15, 1936.

Judge Meeker Terwilliger announced that decrees had been granted this week in three cases, Elma B. Moore winning a divorce from Arthur Moore, Walnut township, after an answer and cross petition were withdrawn; Ning L. Grammer being divorced from William F. Grammer, whom she charged with neglect, and Mary Jane McGinnis Noble being the victor in her uncontested petition against Berlin (Pete) Noble, whom she charged with neglect of duty.

ing filed by James R. Duvall, of Duvall, in the death two years ago of his sister, Miss Margaret Edith Duvall.

The petition charges that the railroad contracted with Harrison township trustees when it double-tracked its lines through the county to maintain crossing gates. Duvall's petition filed in common pleas court claims that the gates have been removed and that because of that fact his sister lost her life when she was walking across the rails at the Duval crossing. The action claims that she was not given sufficient warning that a train was approaching.

The petition declares that Miss Duvall was 39 at the time of her death and that her life expectancy was 28 more years.

From where I sit...

by Joe Marsh

A FEW weeks ago, I had occasion to visit some friends of mine in Nebraska.

Nebraska certainly is a great State. I like Nebraska. I like those immense cornfields that seem to stretch from horizon to horizon. (Plenty of wheatfields in Nebraska, too.)

But the thing that interests me most about Nebraska right now is the very important social experiment the beer people started there several years ago.

Beer itself is naturally a beverage of moderation. Yet, all too often, people are inclined to blame beer wrongly for any misconduct of the customer or the proprietor in a place licensed to sell beer.

So, the brewers got together to see what they could do about this. They weren't really responsible for their retailers'... in fact, they're not allowed to control retailers. But the brewing industry worked out a plan by which it cooperates with the public authorities to eliminate bad conditions in the minority of places whose conduct would reflect on the law-abiding majority.

The beer people urge proprietors of retail places to conduct them properly and to obey the law. They urge consumers to cooperate, and ask the public generally to report law violations to the authorities. They send warnings to careless retailers and if conditions are not corrected they take the case up with the authorities. Naturally the authorities and the public have welcomed this as an added force in building respect for law and order.

That program is now operating in many states—and with the Nation at war, brewing industry organizations cooperate with civil and military authorities to assure good conditions in beer outlets around the army camps and naval stations.

Somehow, to me, that's a mighty important, public-spirited effort. I don't know of anything like it ever having been tried before. If people really help the brewers with that program they'll be doing a great thing for the country.

TODAY, Americans are dying so that America, your free America, can live!

Today, the men in our Army and Navy urgently need more planes, more tanks, more guns! More than our enemies have, better than our enemies have, if we're going to smash our way to Victory!

We've got to get them. We will get them. But only if every man, woman, and child in America helps! And helps voluntarily, regularly, in the American

This week a new campaign for the sale of War Bonds and Savings Stamps is under way throughout the Nation. It is the War Bond Quota Campaign.

It is urgently necessary that you double the rate at which you are now buying War Bonds and Stamps. This will mean the sale direct to individual Americans of War Bonds and Stamps to the amount of not less than one billion dollars every month.

One billion dollars a month is the National quota. It is equal to one-tenth the combined incomes of all Americans.

This money is needed to buy the tools of war for your fighting forces. It will not pay for all of them. Our war expenditures now are at the rate of about FOUR BILLIONS a month, and they are growing daily. But a billion dollars a month direct from the people will make all-out production possible. Without it we cannot do our best; without it we cannot put forth our full effort.

It is desperately needed for another reason. We can't fight a war and at the same time live and spend as usual. There are not enough goods to go around—the things we buy with money. If we go on spending at the 1941 scale, we'll be robbing the fighting man to add to our own comfort or pleasure. We'll be driving up the cost of living for all of us. We'll be imposing dire hardships on our neighbors.

What is asked of you is ten percent of your earnings—a tithe for Liberty. It is not a tax; it is not even a contribution; it is a loan at interest, for your use and protection later.

Your Government asks you to cut down your expenditures, TO SAVE—your boys on the firing line and in the training camps, through your Government, asks you to save so that they may have what they need to win YOUR WAR for you—America asks you to save; to SAVE TO WIN THE WAR; to buy War Bonds and Stamps up to not less than ten percent of your income.

Is Liberty worth it? Is Democracy worth it? Is America worth it? I think I know your answer.

WORLD AT A GLANCE .....

Charles P. Stewart

PREDICTING an Axis "peace offensive" in the course of the summer and warning the country not to be defeated by it. Facts and Figures Archibald MacLeish meant, of course, an Axis attempt to make peace with us on the Axis' own terms.

Charles P. Stewart

Archibald's forecast is accepted in Washington as no more than a possibility, so far as the attempt is concerned. That Herr Hitler should be anxious to detach Uncle Sam from John Bull is spoken of as perfectly natural on Adolf's part. It isn't deemed a bit likely that he will bother much with overtures to London, because the British can't stand it, if they agree to any conditions at all. It is surprising, however, that he may think it can please the United States by some sort of a phony but plausible-sounding offer and that he will be apt to extend it as politely as he knows how. Perhaps it will involve his dumping of Japan, but nobody imagines that he would hesitate at that, in an effort to get us Yankees off his hands.

It is not questioned that it will be a false proposition, as to the long run, to be sure. That's why Facts and Figures MacLeish implies, us not to fall for it, which there appears to be small risk that we will do.

I do hear suggestions, though, that WE might launch a "peace offensive," calculated to throw a mean wump into the Fuehrer.

For example, how about Italy?

Italy Washed Up?

All indications are that the Italians are about through. Supposing we undertook to help saving the rest of their lives, provided they would quit the Axis? It is guessed that they would be more or less acquiescent, even to the extent of terminating Signor Mussolini. They would be no great military asset, but their secession would be a heck of a morale blackeye to the Axis line-up.

And what about the Finns?

They probably could be detached from the Axis. The United States and Finland have been darned good friends. It is a free country, but the well-known morale item figures here.

Japan can't be offered peace, it is true, until that nation is definitely beaten. Yet that can happen, if the Japs' islands are sufficiently bombed from overhead. In that respect we have been derelict, but it has started now, according to their own account. It is in the cards that a "peace offensive" would "take" with them as the summer progresses.

Russia is no worry for the present.

Neither is the German-conquered part of Europe. That requires no "peace offensive." It's ready to be as peaceful as blazes (versus the Axis) at its first opportunity.

And so is France, apparently—minus Pierre Laval—virtually alone.

It does not look as if Pierre could hold out long against a "peace offensive," vigorously boosted.

Isolating Adolf

With France, Italy, occupied Europe and Japan subtracted from his aggregation, it is reckoned that Adolf would be left pretty well out on a limb. Spain, under El Caudillo Francisco Franco, is now pro-Axis, but it is a foregone conclusion that Senor Franco will disintegrate as the others do.

So why isn't a democratic "peace offensive" a desirability as the summer wags along?

Whether or not peace is a desirability depends on who wins it. Japan, of course, has got to be LICKED, as well as Germany, but that can be done, with the Japs alone to take care of.

Left to themselves, they would be on a worse limb than Germany. Invite THEM into a peace conference, all to themselves, and it is easy guessing what Tokyo would decide on.

Essentially, as Navy Secretary Frank Knox put it, the war is between the Germans and the democracies, but momentarily it is between the United States and Japan. There is a "peace offensive" that is more complicated, though. And yet the thing can disintegrate pretty fast as negotiations follow.

It depends on which side takes the peace negotiations "offensive." Facts and Figures MacLeish is pro-offensive.

SYNOPSIS

Three young airline hostesses, TIBBY LANE, sweet and natural; STEENA WINTERS, beautiful and sophisticated; and MARG BAKER, plain, sturdy and direct, share an apartment together in New York, where they are based. A friend of Tibby's.

TOMMY DARE, is spending his first year out of medical school at a clinic in Brooklyn.

Steena sets her cap for WAYNE COURTRIGHT, wealthy official of the airline.

YESTERDAY: Wayne Courtright asks Tibby if she would like to learn to fly.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

WHEN TIBBY told Wayne Courtright that she would like to learn to fly a plane herself, better than anything in the world, she thought of Tommy.

She was provoked at herself because she did. Why should she think of Tommy now? She was not engaged to him. He had no jurisdiction over what she did. Yet she knew that he would not like it. To put it mildly, Tommy would raise the roof if he so much as suspected that Tibby wanted to learn to fly a plane.

"Then that settles it," Wayne Courtright said, which, in a way, settled Tommy, too. "If you'd like to learn, it would give me a great deal of pleasure to teach you. You'll have plenty of time on your off-days. Are you free tomorrow?"

Just like that. As easily, as quickly. Tibby had to draw a long breath to get used to it. Why, there was a Santa Claus, after all! Her voice was still tremulous as she said, "Yes, I'm free tomorrow."

That was still so inadequate, but she could not say anything more.

Courtright said, "Good. Suppose, then, you meet me at my office—say around two o'clock? Meanwhile I'll arrange for a ship."

"But you shouldn't do all this for me!" Tibby finally managed a faint protest. It was too magnanimous. "I shouldn't take up your time, let you do it." As if anyone could stop Wayne Courtright in anything he wanted to do. But Tibby was too overcome to see the irony in that.

Maybe Courtright did. That amused expression played about his lips. "I told you before that my time was not so valuable as you seemed to think," he reminded. She had said that day in his office that she ought not take up his time. "I am doing this, Miss Lane, because I WANT to do it, believe me. When you know me better you will find that I never do anything unless, as I also said before, it gives me some pleasure. It will be a great pleasure to teach anyone who feels about flying as you do, how to handle a ship."

He might have added that this was especially so when that someone was a girl so young and natural and so exceptionally attractive. And he did find this girl attractive, somewhat to his own surprise. It was surprising in itself that he should be attracted to any girl; he had known so many. He always was interested, of course, in a carefully guarded way, in a girl or two. They were as necessary, as much a part of life, as flying his own plane. There was that other new girl, also a hostess, Christeena Winters. A beautiful girl, entirely too beautiful to pass by. But he had no intention of becoming seriously interested in anyone; neither Christeena, although he had been paying her quite marked attention, or this youngster. He would keep his relation with Miss Lane on a strictly teacher-pupil basis. That would render sufficient satisfaction in payment. He meant it when he had said it would be a pleasure to teach her.

But he did not know that one cannot always decide just how deeply one's interest may go, not when it came to personal equations. He always had measured and weighed all of his emotional reactions; his head always had ruled what was supposed to be his heart. Naturally he supposed he could continue to do so indefinitely—especially since he had given so much time to doing just that very thing. He might have given pause had he thought for one moment that a young girl with soft dark eyes and a natural flush in her smooth cheeks could upset his particular applecart. Again he might not. It would indeed be something new and interesting to have such a preposterous thing as that take place.

"Tomorrow at two o'clock," he reminded again at parting. He had ordered only coffee to go with Tibby's light lunch. After these arrangements had been made he did not try to prolong the conversation or the accidental encounter.

Tibby walked on air all the way home. She still was light-headed. Not from any personal effect Courtright had had on her—she would not have dreamed of letting personalities enter in; she thought of Courtright as the head of organizations, herself an employee—which was what made it all the more stupendous. The light-headedness was caused from the lightning methods Courtright produced. Making dreams come true in a slight-of-hand manner, overruling reality in his high-handed way.

She certainly had misjudged him that first time. The rumors were not fair; they only told half, the dramatic, spectacular and awesome half, omitting the human interest side of the story, for he was human after all—he was a perfectly grand guy!

Of course she must remember that he was her boss, a big official in the company. There would be nothing at all personal in this new relationship, either; it simply would be pupil-teacher, instead of employer and employee, although it would be a pleasant relationship, she felt sure.

Tibby decided, upon reflection, to say nothing whatever about all this to Tommy Dare. She might as well spare him any unnecessary worry, and she knew he would worry and stew. He also would try to tell her it was a crazy idea and that she ought to keep her feet on the ground.

She had seen Tommy only once since the memorable night of his proposal. He had stopped in without announcing his intentions of doing so, and probably to show he was not afraid to come. They had taken in a movie. Somehow it had not been a very successful evening. Tibby had been right when she had thought they might have difficulty in regaining the old familiar playtime attitude. That something still hung between them, invisible, yet impregnable. It would have been better, as Tommy had remarked, if he had not said as much as he had. Then he would not have been hurt and would not, in turn, have hurt her.

"It will be a great pleasure to teach anyone who feels about flying as you do how to handle a ship."

Tibby did not know why she should let it bother her so much, for it did bother her, this new constraint, more than she cared to admit, more than seemed called for. Of course it would smooth over in time. She and Tommy could not go on this way; they had known each other too long; they were too fond of one another.

If she was so fond of him, why hadn't she given him a hint that she was, a little hope that she might be willing to wait? It would not have hurt to have given that much. Yet it was his fault that she hadn't. He had not given her a chance. He wanted her to sit at home and wait for him. Like a girl in one's great-grandmother's day. He did not want her to have any life of her own while waiting. He did not—at the end—even want her to wait for him!

He had said forget it—"forget I even said anything—it's gone, like the good old days, the same old world." So that did make an end. More reason why she was an idiot not to forget it all, to worry and fret, even about Tommy himself and that new strangeness between them.

She would not worry any more. She wouldn't give Tommy a thought. She certainly would not tell him that she was going to learn to fly. It was none of his concern; it had nothing to do with him. It was her affair entirely. Her life.

It was enough to think about tomorrow. To count the hours until two o'clock. To pinch herself to try to believe it was going to come true—her most cherished, secret dream of all.

Would Courtright regret his rash promise before tomorrow? Would he meet her, have all the arrangements made?

Progress in Treating Various Speech Defects

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THERE ARE many different kinds of speech defects and they may be due to several different causes. Within the last thirty years a number of physicians and clinics have taken this up as a specialty and are able to make great improvements in the condition.

One group of causes consists of organic defects. Sometimes this is

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

deafness or partial deafness, sometimes dental defects, cleft palate, etc. These are perhaps the easiest of all to improve because there is such a definite method of approach indicated. Everyone knows the peculiar monotonous tone of speech of the person who has been deaf since childhood, and yet it is astonishing how often parents and teachers both fail to recognize a moderate amount of deafness sufficient to produce this form of speech. In childhood a great deal of this can be corrected by the teaching of lip reading, to which the child is more responsive than the adult.

Correcting Dental Defects

The correction of dental defects is perhaps the most hopeful of all methods of curing abnormal speech. Of course, after the dental defect is corrected, the child has to be re-educated in correct phonation. Nowadays cleft palate brings quite a high percentage of successful results in the hands of a skilled plastic surgeon.

The second large group of speech defects are known as functional. In these there is either imperfect perception or control of the processes of utterance in spite of normal organs of speech. Some of these are delayed speech, lalling, lisping, repeating the same word and aphasia.

Aphasia, of course in older people, is due to organic disease of the brain. In children, with whom we are concerned in this article, it is usually due to lack of attention. In the several other forms of speech defect listed, such as lalling, repeating, there may be some lack of mental development at the root of the trouble.

May Be Imitation

In other cases, especially as in lisping, the origin is likely to be imitation. There are few regular functions which we perform which are so easily influenced by imitation as speech.

The third group of speech disorders is usually considered psychogenic. The principal example of this is stammering. In nearly all the clinics for speech re-education and correction, the treatment consists of a mental study of the patient plus patient re-education. The form of re-education differs considerably in different clinics.

In this country one of the permanent ideas is to teach the stammerer to give up his monotonous tone and sing his sentences. In England they depend a great deal upon exercises and relaxation.

Another popular idea about stammering is that it was due to changing from natural left-handedness to right-handedness and when the patient is allowed to go back to using the hand that he wishes to, stammering is improved.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

L. D. R.:—"I would like to know what 'thyroid plus' means." Answer: The phrase is confusing. It probably means the result of a basal metabolism test which was done to determine the activity of the thyroid and means that the thyroid is active.

A. F.: "Is cataract caused by the blood, and can it be removed through blood absorption?"

Answer: This question shows a very dangerous state of mind. We do not know exactly the cause of cataract, but we do know that there are no blood changes. It must always be treated as a local disease. The danger is that much precious time will be wasted by the use of blood purifiers and possibly vision in the eye will have degenerated during this time so that when removal of the cataract is made, the vision is nearly gone.

H. H.: Will you please explain the term "neurasthenia?"

Answer: Literally, neurasthenia means tiredness of the nerves. It was a name invented to cover the fatigue of some of the neuroses, but it has been found entirely inadequate and is not employed any longer by most members of the medical profession. It is notable that the fatigue of the neuroses is complained of most bitterly by those who do not do any work.

M. P.: What are the symptoms of bronchial asthma?

Answer: Asthma is due to a spasm of the muscles of the bronchial tubes, which results in difficult respiration, especially in the expiration of the breath. The symptoms are wheezing and other noises in the chest and difficulty in getting the breath.

But he had no intention of becoming seriously interested in anyone; neither Christena, although he had been paying her quite marked attention, or this youngster. He would keep his relation with Miss Lane on a strictly teacher-pupil basis. That would render sufficient satisfaction in repayment. He meant it when he had said it would be a pleasure to teach her.

But he did not know that one cannot always decide just how deeply one's interest may go, not when it came to personal equations. He always had measured and weighed all of his emotional reactions; his head always had ruled what was supposed to be his heart. Naturally he supposed he could continue to do so indefinitely—especially since he had given so much time to doing just that very thing.

He might have given pause had he thought for one moment that a young girl with soft dark eyes and a natural flush in her smooth cheeks could upset his particular applecart. Again he might not. It would indeed be something new and interesting to have such a preposterous thing as that take place.

"Tomorrow at two o'clock," he reminded again at parting. He had ordered only coffee to go with Tibby's light lunch. After these arrangements had been made he did not try to prolong the conversation or the accidental encounter.

Tibby walked on air all the way home. She still was light-headed. Not from any personal effect Courtright had had on her—she would not have dreamed of letting personalities enter in; she thought of Courtright as the head of organizations, herself an employee—she was what made it all the more stupendous. The light-headedness was caused from the lightning methods Courtright produced. Making dreams come true in a slight-of-hand manner, overruling reality in his high-handed way.

She certainly had misjudged him that first time. The rumors were not fair; they only told half, the dramatic, spectacular and awesome half, omitting the human interest side of the story, for he was human after all—he was a perfectly good guy!

Of course she must remember that he was her boss, a big official in the company. There would be nothing at all personal in this new relationship, either; it simply would be pupil-teacher, instead of employer and employee, although it would be a pleasant relationship, she felt sure.

Tibby decided, upon reflection, to say nothing whatever about all this to Tommy Dare. She might as well spare him any unnecessary worry, and she knew he would worry and stew. He also would try to tell her it was a crazy idea and that she ought to keep her feet on the ground.

She had seen Tommy only once since the memorable night of his proposal. He had stopped in without announcing his intentions of doing so, and probably to show he

Progress in Treating Various Speech Defects

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THERE ARE many different kinds of speech defects and they may be due to several different causes. Within the last thirty years a number of physicians and clinics have taken this up as a specialty and are able to make great improvements in the condition.

One group of causes consists of organic defects. Sometimes this is Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

deafness or partial deafness, sometimes dental defects, cleft palate, etc. These are perhaps the easiest of all to improve because there is such a definite method of approach indicated. Everyone knows the peculiar monotonous tone of speech of the person who has been deaf since childhood, and yet it is astonishing how often parents and teachers both fail to recognize a moderate amount of deafness sufficient to produce this form of speech. In childhood a great deal of this can be corrected by the teaching of lip reading, to which the child is more responsive than the adult.

Correcting Dental Defects

The correction of dental defects is perhaps the most hopeful of all methods of curing abnormal speech. Of course, after the dental defect is corrected, the child has to be re-educated in correct phonation. Nowadays cleft palate brings quite a high percentage of successful results in the hands of a skilled plastic surgeon.

The second large group of speech defects are known as functional. In these there is either imperfect perception or control of the processes of utterance in spite of normal organs of speech. Some of these are delayed speech, lalling, lisping, repeating the same word and aphasia.

Aphasia of course in older people, is due to organic disease of the brain. In children, with whom we are concerned in this article, it is usually due to lack of attention. In the several other forms of speech defect listed, such as lalling, repeating, there may be some lack of mental development at the root of the trouble.

May Be Imitation

In other cases, especially as in lisping, the origin is likely to be imitation. There are few regular functions which we perform which are so easily influenced by imitation as speech.

The third group of speech disorders is usually considered psychogenic. The principal example of this is stammering. In nearly all the clinics for speech re-education and correction, the treatment consists of a mental study of the patient plus patient re-education. The form of re-education differs considerably in different clinics. In this country one of the permanent ideas is to teach the stammerer to give up his monotonous tone and sing his sentences. In England they depend a great deal upon exercises and relaxation.

Another popular idea about stammering is that it was due to changing from natural left-handedness to right-handedness and when the patient is allowed to go back to using the hand that he wishes to, stammering is improved.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

L. D. R.:—"I would like to know what 'thyroid plus' means."

Answer: The phrase is confusing. It probably means the result of a basal metabolism test which was done to determine the activity of the thyroid and means that the thyroid is active.

A. F.:—"Is cataract caused by the blood, and can it be removed through blood absorption?"

Answer: This question shows a very dangerous state of mind. We do not know exactly the cause of cataract, but we do know that there are no blood changes. It must always be treated as a local disease. The danger is that much precious time will be wasted by the use of blood purifiers and possibly vision in the eye will have degenerated during this time so that when removal of the cataract is made, the vision is nearly gone.

H. H.: Will you please explain the term "neurasthenia?"

Answer: Literally, neurasthenia means tiredness of the nerves. It was a name invented to cover the fatigue of some of the neuroses, but it has been found entirely inadequate and is not employed any longer by most members of the medical profession. It is notable that the fatigue of the neuroses is complained of most bitterly by those who do not do any work.

M. P.: What are the symptoms of bronchial asthma?

Answer: Asthma is due to a spasm of the muscles of the bronchial tubes, which results in difficult respiration, especially in the expiration of the breath. The symptoms are wheezing and other noises in the chest and difficulty in getting the breath.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Ways to Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

WHERE IS FIRE? DEVELOPS INTO $64 QUESTION

Circleville firemen spent 15 minutes hunting a fire to fight early Friday, but gave up their quest after failing to locate any flames.

The call came at 6:45 a. m. by telephone, and said "the campground on Ohio street," but there was no fire there. Thinking their informant might have said High street, the truck was driven to both ends of that street without results.

To top off the unsuccessful search firemen were unable to trace the call, crews of 'hello' girls at the telephone office having been changed in the meantime.

Firemen would be interested to learn whether anyone knows where there is a fire that needs fighting, they are in the mood now to combat one despite unusually warm weather for May 1.

Avoid opening the door of your refrigerator more often than necessary and keeping it open longer than necessary. The more warm that is allowed to enter the cabinet, the more the mechanism must operate to maintain safe food storage temperature.

"Smilin' Through" Proves Enjoyable Entertainment

"Smilin' Through," a comedy drama in three acts, was presented by the senior class of Circleville high school Thursday in the school auditorium, before a deeply appreciative audience. Miss Mary Lou Kochheiser almost stole the play with her near-professional presentation of Kathleen Duggan, the sharp-tongued Irish heroine, and of Mooneyen Clare, the gentle maid of 50 years before, who was killed on her wedding night by Jeremiah Wayne, a rejected suitor.

Romance, love interest, comedy and tragedy, all elements which make a perfect stage production, were found in the play.

No small part of the comedy interest of the production was found in the outstanding work of Bill Burget as John Carteret and Glenn Barnhart as Dr. Owen Harding when they appeared as feeble, irascible old men. As vigorous young friends in the throw-back scenes, they showed minute attention to detail that was noticeable feature of the production.

Marcella Cunningham and Jean Imbler, as Sarah Wayne and Mary Clare, were beautifully turned out in period gowns of the hoop-skirt era and presented authentic interpretations of the ladies of that age.

Lillian Thompson was a very acceptable "Ellen" appearing in youth and age, and at all times completely in character.

Robert Goeller's English accent was really something to enjoy as was his excellent though brief comedy part as Willie Ainley.

Robert Kline as Kenneth Wayne, both as a carefree youth and as a wounded soldier home from war, was ever the interesting lover.

The Jeremiah Wayne of Harry Clifton was a finely drawn characterization of the unpleasantly bitter man of the play.

The play will be repeated to-night with the same cast, and it is reported a much larger ticket sale marks this performance. One of the most ambitious attempts in plays for the high school, a visit to the auditorium this evening will convince you that the work ranks highly in amateur performances.

No small part of the entertainment of the evening was the music of the high school orchestra, the selections by the girls' sextet and the trumpet solo by Delbert Puckett, the music being presented between the acts.

Several changes have taken place in the court house office personnel as a result of the war.

R. E. Armstrong, a deputy sheriff, will begin work as bailiff in common pleas court room Friday filling a vacancy left by Robert Adkins, now in military service.

Sheriff Charles Radloff has not yet chosen a successor to Armstrong.

Miss Mary Kathryn Pile, Edison avenue, has taken over the duties of Franklin Crites in the clerk of courts office. Crites has enlisted at Patterson field, Dayton.

Miss Marjorie Miller, Madison township, employed in the Aid to Dependent Children division, will leave the court house Friday for a position with the Ohio Bell Telephone Company in Columbus.

Miss Foreign Trade

Pretty Lois James, chosen "Miss Foreign Trade," will represent America's sea-borne commerce in the coming celebration of Foreign Trade week. With wartime conditions stressing the need of products brought from abroad, the importance of foreign trade is being emphasized especially this year.

WHERE IS FIRE? DEVELOPS INTO $64 QUESTION

Circleville firemen spent 15 minutes hunting a fire to fight early Friday, but gave up their quest after failing to locate any flames.

The call came at 6:45 a. m. by telephone, and said "the campground on Ohio street," but there was no fire there. Thinking their informant might have said High street, the truck was driven to both ends of that street without results.

To top off the unsuccessful search firemen were unable to trace the call, crews of 'hello' girls at the telephone office having been changed in the meantime.

Firemen would be interested to learn whether anyone knows where there is a fire that needs fighting, they are in the mood now to combat one despite unusually warm weather for May 1.

ROTARY HEARS ADDRESS ON GLASS AND ITS USE

L. A. Cole, manager of the Owens-Illinois Glass company, Columbus, told Circleville Rotarians how glass is made and discussed it various commercial uses when he talked Thursday at the Rotary luncheon meeting in Pickaway Arms restaurant.

Venetians used glass more than a thousand years ago for ornamental purposes, Mr. Cole said, and during the 13th century use of the product was common in Germany, England and Italy.

Best grade of glass is used for lenses and of the total lens glass production only twenty percent is used, he said.

During the luncheon meeting Mr. Cole talked about present uses of glass and showed samples of glass fabric and other articles.

BILL GOODCHILD HURT IN FALL AT PARK CABIN

William A. (Bill) Goodchild, Beverly road, was to undergo x-ray in Berger hospital Friday to determine the extent of a head injury suffered Thursday evening at the Sportsmen's Cabin at Dewey park when he fell eight feet from the rafters, striking his head and right shoulder on the concrete floor. Hospital attaches, where he spent the night, said he is resting fairly well and that his injury could not be determined until the x-ray was completed.

Always the life of the party because of his acrobatic tactics, Goodchild was hanging by his hands and feet from the rafters when his hands slipped.

He was attending a farewell party with a number of friends, planned for Aaron Lumpe, North Pickaway street, his brother-in-law, who leaves Monday to start Air Corps training at Patterson field, Dayton.

Goodchild is under the care of Dr. D. V. Courtright.

CHILLICOTHE MOTORIST LOSES AUTO IN BLAZE

Flames of undetermined origin destroyed the 1934 Ford coach belonging to Walter E. Brescoll, 24, of 535 1/2 North High street, Chillicothe, on Scioto trail four miles north of South Bloomfield Thursday at 3 p. m.

Brescoll who drove the southbound car off the highway when he noticed smoke in the rear of the vehicle told Deputy Sheriff Bryan Custer that he did not know how the fire could have started. Scouting the theory that a cigarette might have caused it, Brescoll, who is a coal dealer, said he didn't remember smoking since leaving Columbus.

Deputy Custer said the automobile was a total wreck. Brescoll was riding alone.

RATION BOARD TO HAVE OFFICE AT CITY HALL

Leslie D. May, chairman of the Circleville rationing board, said Friday that an office will soon be set up in City Hall where an office assistant appointed under federal civil service will be available at all times to handle ever-mounting work of the office.

No appointment has been made as yet, the rationing board seeking to learn whether an eligible list is available for appointment. Clarence Helvering, service director, has a crew busy getting the room, which was formerly used as the WPA office, in condition.

The tire board granted certificates for one passenger car tube, four truck tires and five truck tubes, one truck recap and eight passenger car recaps at its meeting Thursday evening in Circleville Oil company offices.

O. D. Mader, Pincney street, was given permission to buy the automobile of Paul Mason, North Court street, who is now in Army service. The permit was granted under a provision which lets soldiers sell their automobiles to any person wishing to buy them.

3,000 CATFISH GIVEN FREEDOM IN DARBY CREEK

Conservation Officer Clarence Francis put joy into the hearts of fishermen of Pickaway county's hundreds Thursday afternoon when he distributed 3,000 mature channel catfish in Darby creek, making six different plants from the north end of Pickaway county to the mouth of the creek.

The shipment was the finest he has ever handled, the game protector said, estimating that the combined weight of the fish must have been between 2,000 and 2,500 pounds.

Francis was assisted by the truck driver sent to Circleville by the Ohio Division of Conservation.

DOLPH CAMILLI RAPS 2 HOMERS TO DEFEAT REDS

NEW YORK, May 1 — Most valuable player in the National League last season, Dolph Camilli still is playing that part for the Brooklyn Dodgers as they belt their way through the west seeking second straight pennant.

As the Dodgers went into action against the second place Pittsburgh Pirates today, the champions were four games in front after sweeping three in a row with the Cincinnati Reds "to increase their winning string to six straight for a total of 14 wins in 17 starts. The sparkplug of their current surge is Camilli, the well-known invalid.

He missed a series due to illness immediately preceding the Dodgers' take-off for their swing through the out-lying provinces, but you can't detect from his current hitting that he so recently was fettered by that severe cold.

He increased his home run total for the season to six yesterday when he belted a pair for a grand total of four in three games against the Reds. He hit one Tuesday, one in the ninth Wednesday to tie the score and enable the Dodgers to go on to an extra inning win, then added one for practice and another in the ninth with two on yesterday to win the game, 11 to 8.

Meantime, the Cleveland Indians continued to click through their 11th straight victory to maintain their three-game lead in the American. The Indians got scattered nine-hit pitching from the Vernon Kennedy to beat the Philadelphia Athletics, 6 to 1.

The Pirates helped to bring about this situation by losing yesterday to the Philadelphia Phillies, 6 to 3, to drop four games behind the winning Dodgers. The Phillies took the game with a home run blast that included round-trippers by Warren, Etten, Northey and Litwhiler.

The Boston Braves swept their three-game series with the Chicago Cubs, 3 to 2, by virtue of home runs poled out yesterday by Lew Grempp and Ernie Lombardi.

The New York Giants continued to struggle by bowing to St. Louis Cardinals, 7 to 3.

The New York Yankees climbed over the Detroit Tigers and back into second place in the American League with a 3 to 0 win over the St. Louis Browns behind the four-hit pitching of Ernie Bonham, who scored his second straight shutout of the season.

The Tigers lost to the Boston Red Sox, as Heber Newsome pitched a six-hitter for his third straight win, 8 to 3.

The Chicago White Sox losing streak was stretched to seven games by the Washington Senators, 1 to 0, with Early Winn getting the nod over the veteran Ted Lyons in a mound battle.

BILL GOODCHILD HURT IN FALL AT PARK CABIN

William A. (Bill) Goodchild, Beverly road, was to undergo x-ray in Berger hospital Friday to determine the extent of a head injury suffered Thursday evening at the Sportsmen's Cabin at Dewey park when he fell eight feet from the rafters, striking his head and right shoulder on the concrete floor. Hospital attaches, where he spent the night, said he is resting fairly well and that his injury could not be determined until the x-ray was completed.

Always the life of the party because of his acrobatic tactics, Goodchild was hanging by his hands and feet from the rafters when his hands slipped. He was attending a farewell party with a number of friends, planned for Aaron Lampe, North Pickaway street, his brother-in-law, who leaves Monday to start Air Corps training at Patterson field, Dayton.

Goodchild is under the care of Dr. D. V. Courtright.

CHILLICOTHE MOTORIST LOSES AUTO IN BLAZE

Flames of undetermined origin destroyed the 1934 Ford coach belonging to Walter E. Brescoll, 24, of 535½ North High street, Chillicothe, on Scioto trail four miles north of South Bloomfield Thursday at 3 p. m.

Brescoll who drove the south-bound car off the highway when he noticed smoke in the rear of the vehicle told Deputy Sheriff Bryan Custer that he did not know how the fire could have started. Scouting the theory that a cigarette might have caused it, Brescoll, who is a coal dealer, said he didn't remember smoking since leaving Columbus.

Deputy Custer said the automobile was a total wreck. Brescoll was riding alone.

The tire board granted certificates for one passenger car tube, four truck tires and five truck tubes, one truck recap and eight passenger car recaps at its meeting Thursday evening in Circleville Oil company offices.

O. D. Mader, Pinckney street, was given permission to buy the automobile of Paul Mason, North Court street, who is now in Army service. The permit was granted under a provision which lets soldiers sell their automobiles to any person wishing to buy them.

Conservation Officer Clarence Francis put joy into the hearts of hundreds of Pickaway county's fishermen Thursday afternoon when he distributed 3,000 mature channel catfish in Darby creek, making six different plants from the north end of Pickaway county to the mouth of the creek.

The shipment was the finest he has ever handled, the game protector said, estimating that the combined weight of the fish must have been between 2,000 and 2,500 pounds.

Francis was assisted by the truck driver sent to Circleville by the Ohio Division of Conservation.

Rationing Board Urges Early Registration For Sugar Quota Cards

INITIAL ISSUE TO BE MADE IN CITY MONDAY

Offices In School Buildings
Open From 3 To 10 P. M.
For Four Days

"A" TO "E" FIRST ON LIST

Two Pounds Per Person Is Starting Limit Without
Federal Penalty

Urged by school authorities and rationing board officials to report at the time suggested and as soon after the start of the registration hour as possible to avoid congestion, Circleville and Pickaway county homemakers were preparing Friday to sign for their quotas of sugar.

The registration starts Monday and continues through Thursday, all persons being instructed to report at the elementary school building in their own school district. The registration will take place between 3 and 10 p. m. each day.

Persons whose surnames begin with A through E are asked to register May 4; those whose names start with F through K on May 5; I through R on May 6 and S through Z on May 7. By following this schedule rationing officials believe a better system of signing up will be possible.

Every member of the family must be registered, and any member of the family who is more than 18 years of age may appear for the entire family. However, the person representing the family must be able to answer numerous questions, among them being name, address, height, weight, color of eyes, color of hair, age and sex.

County Rationing Coordinator George D. McDowell pointed out several important provisions covering the registration. One concerns the 'family unit,' this meaning a group of two or more persons consisting of all persons living together in the same household (including persons temporarily absent therefrom) who are related by blood, marriage or adoption.

Any person who is not a member of a family unit, if he is temporarily away from his home during registration, may apply for his war ration book wherever he may be. Thus a traveling salesman who is not a member of a family unit may apply at any place he may be at the time of registration.

A person who is a member of a family unit and who is temporarily absent from his home during registration should not apply for his own war ration book separately; the person applying should also apply for him.

If a person 18 years of age or over has left home to attend college, he should apply for and get his own book in the town where he is residing during the school year. His father or mother must not apply for him as a member of the family unit.

On the other hand if a person under 18 years of age has left home to attend school or college and is not a member of a family unit, his father, mother or legal guardian must file an application for him.

A person is entitled to a war ration book although he may eat all his meals at a restaurant, boarding house, or similar place, and has no present intention of buying any sugar.

Mr. McDowell pointed out Friday that each person is permitted to have two pounds of sugar for which no stamps will be removed from the first ration book. That is a family of five may have 10 pounds of sugar in its home without losing any of its stamps.

If there are more than two pounds of sugar in the house for each individual, stamps will be taken from the ration book to cover up to six pounds. If there is more than six pounds in the house for each member, an application should be filed for a ration book, but none will be issued.

Ration stamps may be used in any retail store in the nation; may be used only by or for the person named and described in the book; must be kept in a safe place and properly used; if lost, or mutilated this should be reported at once to the rationing board; if you enter a hospital or other institution and expect to be there for more than 10 days you must turn over your rationing book to the person in charge; when a person dies his ration book must be returned to the ration board.

Everyone is urged to register.

COMMUNISTS OF OHIO MAY FILE TEST CASE HERE

Pickaway county courts may become involved in the question of whether the Communist party should have a place on the Ohio ballot for the November 4 election, it was indicated Friday when Cleveland members of the party said they would file necessary court affidavits in 20 counties, one of which is Pickaway in an effort to be permitted on the ballot.

Secretary of State John E. Sweeney said that he would appeal to the Federal Bureau of Investigation in an effort to determine whether the party should be permitted on the ballot.

Sweeney has received a formal petition from the Communist group asking a place. Under Ohio law he must rule on the request within 60 days. In the petition, signed by 11 Cleveland members, the party denied any connection with a foreign power or government. It swore also that it did not use any radio, printed or other means to advocate overthrow of local, state or national governments by force or violence.

Other counties in which the claims will be asserted in court affidavits in addition to Pickaway are Cuyahoga, Franklin, Hamilton, Geauga, Belmont, Harrison, Jefferson, Columbiana, Stark, Carroll, Lake, Lucas, Ottawa, Mahoning, Ashtabula, Portage, Montgomery and Summit.

COUNTY WHEAT GRAINERS READY FOR QUOTA VOTE

Pickaway county wheat growers, together with growers of the remainder of the state and of all other wheat growing sections of the nation, will vote Saturday on the Agriculture Adjustment Administration wheat marketing quotas for 1942.

Voting precincts have been set up all over the county by local AAA authorities under direction of John G. Boggs, chairman, and a heavy ballot is expected.

Pickaway county farmers last year favored the marketing quota system, although the state was opposed. However, the national vote was sufficient to pass the quota plan.

Mr. Boggs said Friday that quotas were proposed this year because of existing surpluses of previous years. Two-thirds of the nation's wheat growers must approve the quotas to put them into effect.

It has been estimated that Ohio this year has 2,000,000 acres of wheat under cultivation. At an average of 20 bushels per acre, this would produce 40,000,000 bushels. The national supply for the marketing year, beginning next July 1, is estimated at a record peak of 1,428,000,000 bushels. The 1942 crop has been estimated at 793,000,000 bushels, just 93,000,000 over normal domestic needs.

HEAT RECORDS BROKEN BEFORE APRIL DEPARTS

Warmest April on record!

That was the declaration Friday of Ervin Leist, weather observer, after a check of reports on file in his office. The month was unusually dry, too, Leist declared, adding to worries of the county's farmers who need moisture right now, and need it badly.

Thursday's top reading of 90 was the highest recorded so far in 1942, and was seven degrees higher than a year ago. The temperature fell to 59 during the night.

Weather Forecaster A. G. Knarr of the Chicago area said the month was one of the warmest Aprils on record in his district and that a reading of 90.9 recorded Thursday the highest April mark in the 70 year history of the office.

TWO CAUGHT BY LOCAL POLICE DRAW PEN TERMS

Two Youngstown men captured by Circleville police after stealing a package of dresses from an express truck in Washington C. H. last December 18 were sentenced Thursday to a federal prison on charges of stealing an interstate commerce shipment.

They were Frank Casey and Joseph Horvath, the former being sentenced to four years and the latter three years by Judge Mell G. Underwood. Both men were reported to have held good jobs in Youngstown steel mills when they committed their robbery.

They were nabbed at Court and Main streets 30 minutes after leaving Washington C. H.

LEGION POLICE GROUP NEARING END OF SCHOOL

Thirty-two Circleville and Pickaway county war veterans, men who fought the last war and are prepared to do their share in the present conflict, will be graduated at a state highway patrol ceremony May 22 in the American Legion clubrooms, the event being the night following completion of their course.

The 32 have attended classes faithfully, have shown unusual interest in the rigid training dispensed by trained highway patrol officers, and will be ready after the class is concluded to assist in case of almost any emergency.

Many officials of the highway patrol are expected to attend the graduation service.

The war veterans, all members of the American Legion, have been trained to take over in case of any emergency until proper authority arrives. They are versed in self-defense, are able to protect life and property, and can handle traffic, always an important problem in case of emergency.

The graduation program is expected to be a highly interesting one.

5 Facts About Building and Remodeling

The answer to a problem that's bothering home-owners and business men

- 1 YOU CAN REMODEL NOW! Washington authorities agree that remodeling which does not require critical materials is actually an aid to the nation's war program—and should not be postponed.
- 2 AMERICA NEEDS MORE ROOM! The necessary restrictions in new building make it essential to renovate, repair and expand many old structures to provide additional living and working space badly needed in many communities.
- 3 HELP CONSERVE OUR WAR RESOURCES by improving present homes and buildings. This is no time for waste—but government experts estimate that uninsulated homes now consume a billion dollars more fuel than necessary, besides placing a tremendous burden on transportation systems and using manpower needed for armament production.
- 4 SAVE VITAL ELECTRIC POWER for war industry. Many homes, plants, offices and stores can save electricity and have better lighting if their interior walls and ceilings are refinished with a new low-cost paint that reflects more light.
- 5 WE HAVE MORE THAN 100 NON-MILITARY MATERIALS IN STOCK that you can use immediately and with a clear conscience . . . plus a lot of practical new methods to save time and money on repairing and remodeling. Don't put off jobs that will improve the value of your property to yourself and your country. Phone us for full information.
